Schools honoured by London's mayor

Reporter

Sophie Jones

sophie.jones@london.
newsquest.co.uk

A Chessington primary school and a secondary in New Malden have been honoured under a new programme set up by the Mayor of London to recognise exceptional schools in London.

Schools for Success was set up by Sadiq Khan's office to help tackle education inequality and increase standards for all school children across the capital, whatever their background.

It celebrates schools that achieve academic success with all their pupils, particularly disadvantaged or vulnerable students who started off behind their peers.

Just six per cent of primary and secondary schools made the grade, and this includes Castle Hill Primary School in Buckland Road and Coombe Girls' School in New Malden.

Mr Khan said: "London has some of the best schools in the country, and Schools for Success shows the huge difference good quality teaching can make to pupils who started off behind in their studies."

In 2016, there were more than 39,000 pupils at the end of primary school who did not reach expected levels, according to the Mayor of London's Annual Education Report.

Castle Hill's headteacher Lou Anderson said: "I could not be any more proud of staff and pupils. I am delighted the school's hard work and achievements have been recognised, we are now looking forward to working with other schools and sharing the very good practice on display here every day with others."

"Castle Hill is a very special place, we strive to meet the varied needs of all learners in as many creative ways as possible."

"It is a privilege to lead this amazing school. The whole community are very supportive, the staff are amazing and pupils love learning. Everyone has played a huge part in our success."

The ball will take place on October 20

Pupils going to the ball to end storytelling lessons

Pupils at Danetree Primary School are preparing for a fairytale ending to their "storytelling" topic.

They have been reading and exploring traditional tales this half-term and are looking forward to donning their royal finery along with nine members of staff. Ball organiser Sarah Arnold said: "Princes and princesses will come from afar to witness the trying-on of Cinderella's slipper and participate in a royal feast and dance. Watch out for the ugly sisters who will cause havoc and mischief. It is a fun way to bring a topic to a close and the ball will give the children an event to remember." The ball will take place once upon a time, on October 20.

£56k scanner for hospital

A state-of-the-art ultrasound machine that was given to Epsom Hospital after mammoth fundraising efforts has been demonstrated to one of the donors.

The £56,000 scanner, in the Hope Fry Vascular Unit, supports the stroke, DVT and aneurysm surveillance services, as well as patients suffering from symptoms associated with vascular problems.

Epsom Medical Equipment Fund donated the machine, with contributions from the Walton-on-the-Hill Pageant, Michael O, Dorking Deepdene Rotary Club, Residents of Mospey Crescent, former Surrey County councillor Stella Lallemant and County councillor Tina Mountain.

Councillor Mountain, who donated £2,000 from her county councillor's allowance, visited Epsom Hospital for a demonstration by scientist Amanda Clark.

Ms Clark said: "It is fantastic to have a new machine which will benefit all the patients needing vascular ultrasound scans and improve the ultrasound service for the community. Thank you to Bess for her tireless fundraising and to everyone who gave so generously."

Rise in crime as lights go off

Decision made to save £210k a year

Reporter
Calum Rutter
calum.rutter@london.
newsquest.co.uk

Night time crime has gone up by 40 per cent in Epsom and Ewell since the streetlights were turned off in February.

Police statistics show there were 342 crimes recorded between midnight and 5am from March 1 to July 24 this year, compared to 245 during the same period in 2016 and 251 in 2015.

Some lights in the borough went off during those hours in February, with a further set being turned off on July 26, after the published data was collected.

Surrey County Council made the controversial decision to turn off lights across the county in an effort to save £210,000 a year.

A county council spokesman said: "Due to the ever-increasing demand for our services, coupled with a reduction in government funding, we made the tough decision to turn off streetlights in quiet areas with low amounts of traffic in the early hours."

"We worked with Surrey Police on this and kept on lights in areas where concerns were raised to help ensure that our residents' safety is not compromised."

Councillor Eber Kington, who requested the data be compiled, has urged residents who want to see the lights come back on to contact the county council.

He said: "I was getting lots of messages from people anxious and angry about the situation. I'm still getting far too many people coming to me with stories about this."

"First I would encourage everyone to make sure crime is reported."

"We need those stats. Second, people who feel strongly about it should make use of the review service on the council website."

"That has to give a message that people are not willing to accept that in the modern day we have to have the streetlights off at night."

There were 342 crimes between March and July this year compared with 245 over same period last year

Marathon run to help sick boy

Money being raised for two-year-old

Reporter

Sophie Jones
sophie.jones@london.
newsquest.co.uk

A Cheam runner is set to attempt the London Marathon in April to raise money in aid of her friend's seriously ill little boy.

Cheryl Burn, of Chertsey Drive, is raising money for Ewan, age 2, who has a rare condition called Patau's Syndrome which affects approximately 1 in 5,000 births.

This serious genetic disorder is also known as Trisomy 13 and is caused by having an additional copy of Chromosome 13 in some or all of the body's cells.

Cheryl, who met Ewan's mum Alison at antenatal classes in Banstead, said: "When he was born doctors said he's not going to last more than a week, then it was you're not going to take him home, then it got to ten days and they were told he won't reach his first birthday."

Now two years old, deaf-blind Ewan continues to defy expectations and fight on against the odds.

Cheryl added: "They said he's never going to be able to stand but he loves his walker and smiles so much."

"This little boy is one hell of a fighter and I am going to work so hard to raise as much money as possible for him because him and his amazing family deserve the absolute best!"

Ewan's mum has had to give up her job to look after Ewan full time because of the specialist care he needs.

As Ewan gets older, he will need equipment and adaptations to the house in order for him to continue making such incredible progress.

To find out more about Ewan, go to facebook.com/ewanoursuperstarT13 and to sponsor Cheryl, go to giving.com/crowdfunding/cheryl-burn-1

Young Sports Team of the Year 2017: Blenheim High School Under 13s

Young sports stars win recognition

Epsom and Ewell's sporting stars have been recognised at a prizegiving ceremony at Epsom Downs Racecourse. The seventh annual Epsom and Ewell Sports Awards was held on October 3 with more than 150 people in attendance, including shortlisted nominees and guests.

Epsom and Ewell Council thanked everyone who nominated their local sporting hero - all 80 nominations were assessed by an independent panel and whittled down to a shortlist.

Councillor Barry Nash, chairman of the community and wellbeing committee, said: "Everyone nominated for an award should feel extremely proud to be shortlisted. It is a fantastic achievement and you are all a credit to our borough."

Every year there are 10 different awards with each individual award sponsored by a local organisation or business. The 10 winners on the night were:

•Tyri Donovan - Epsom Gymnastics & Trampoline Club Young Sports Personality of the Year

•Epsom Embers Men's Vets Hockey - Epsom Golf Club Sports Team of the Year

Guests will be scared by theme park staff to make sure they can handle the horror

‘Fright restrictions’ at new attraction

Only the bravest thrill-seekers will be allowed into Chessington World of Adventures’ scary new attraction, Creepy Caves Unearthed.

Guests over 35 will be spooked by park staff, and if they keep their cool, with their pulse remaining under 100 beats per minute, they will be let in.

Jordan Smith, Brave-o-meter coordinator, said: “Creepy Caves Unearthed is set to be our scariest attraction yet and, while we’re expecting children to be brave, our research shows that adults’ sense of bravery dips after 35.

“Creepy Caves Unearthed isn’t an attraction for the faint-hearted, so it’s vital that we make sure over 35s in particular are fully equipped and pass the tests before they enter.”

Raging over a rumbling road

Family unable to sleep well for months

Reporter
Sophie Jones
sophie.jones@london.
newsquest.co.uk

“Earthquake”-like tremors from a damaged road in Chessington have been keeping a family awake for eight months.

One resident said Leatherhead Road is so noisy he can “hear the glasses singing the cupboards”.

Transport for London (TfL) is aware of the problem but haven’t managed to fix it yet, despite action from residents and a query from Kingston and Surbiton MP Ed Davey.

Resident Roy Fisher said: “We have a dog called Heart that’s on tranquillisers because it keeps thinking there’s an earthquake which is shaking the house. The vets say Heart needs to be removed from the situation but it’s been eight months and we can’t put her in kennels that long.”

Because Leatherhead Road is used for access to the M25, Mr Fisher said heavy lorries come down at all hours and shake residents in their beds.

He added: “We have the front wall cracked, new plaster which we put up last year all showing hairline cracks and all I keep getting is that they’ve turned up once and the machine broke, they turned up again last week and they couldn’t do the job because there was a car parked there. It’s no excuse, normally when you’re going to do work you put cones up before, you don’t just turn up.”

A TfL spokesperson said: “We’re sorry for the disruption caused by the poor road surface in Leatherhead Road.

“We aim to resurface the road on Friday night as our previous attempts were delayed by broken equipment and a lack of access to the road.”

Lost on the train

Reporter
Calum Rutter
calum.rutter@london.newsquest.co.uk
 co.uk

The first few weeks of South Western Railway operating the line out of Waterloo have brought in thousands of lost property items.

Some of the most commonly left behind are exactly what you might expect: wallets, keys, glasses and phones.

But there have been some more unusual items left to navigate the train network alone, abandoned to their fate.

Here is a list of recent lost property that you might find surprising:

- A barrister's wig
 - An ironing board
 - A pirate flag with pole
 - A leather lounge chair
 - A pair of false teeth
 - A giant inflatable shark
 - Giant prize bananas, pandas and doughnuts from Thorpe Park
- And here is a list of the most common items:
- Umbrellas
 - Coats
 - Wallets and purses
 - Keys
 - Railcards
 - Glasses
 - Phones, laptops and other gadgets
 - Shopping bags and luggage
 - Drinks bottles
- Michael Pugh, customer experience manager at Waterloo station, said: "Our staff from across the network work hard to ensure passengers are reunited with their belongings."

Michael Pugh

"However, we would encourage everyone to check they have their belongings before they leave our trains. Keys, phones and wallets are always such a pain to lose but it's the sentimental items that really cause problems for passengers."

If you misplaced your giant inflatable shark, visit southwesternrailway.com/contact-and-help/lost-property to fill out a form, or call 020 7401 7861 from Monday to Friday between 7.30am to 7pm.

Police want to speak to two men about an assault outside in Epsom

Suspects sought after jaw fractured

A man whose jaw was fractured when he was assaulted on a birthday night out in Epsom last month is still struggling to eat properly.

He was attacked at about 2.25am on Saturday, September 9, in Upper High Street and was taken to hospital.

Police want to speak to two men about the assault on the victim, who is in his 20s, and they have released CCTV images showing them. Anyone who recognises the men, or who saw the incident, is asked to call Surrey Police on 101, quoting reference 45170099295, or contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Tennis courts are a smash

Basketball facilities also refurbished

Reporter

Sophie Jones

sophie.jones@london.
newsquest.co.uk

Alexandra Recreation Ground's free tennis and basketball courts have been refurbished and can once again be enjoyed by everyone.

The three tennis courts and two basketball courts are available for use by adults and children, with teenagers encouraged to play with their friends.

Councillor Barry Nash, chairman of the community and wellbeing committee, said: "This refurbishment will mean that the sport is accessible to all and will enable the community to treasure this valuable asset.

He added: "Who knows? There may be a Wimbledon winner of the future about to start their tennis career in Epsom!"

Alexandra Recreation Ground is close to Epsom town centre and is used for sporting fixtures, including football, cricket and bowls.

It also has two playgrounds for the under 12s and a play area for over 12s.

The historic park officially opened on June 27 in 1901 and the tennis courts were installed in 1912.

The park was selected for Epsom's celebrations for both George V's coronation in 1911 and for the town's peace celebrations following World War One.

As part of the Queen Elizabeth II jubilee celebrations in 2012, Alexandra Recreation Ground achieved QEII status – this protects the park for future generations.

Kirsty Morris and Lucy Zoeller of Ewell Village Guides at the Big Gig

Thumbs up from guides on night out

An excited group of girls from Ewell Village Guides had the time of their lives last Saturday rocking out to some of their favourite artists including Louisa Johnson and Ella Eyre at Wembley Arena.

Girls from Ewell Village Guides travelled to Wembley on October 7 for Girlguiding's annual pop concert, The Big Gig.

They were treated to a star-studded line up which also included Pixie Lott, Five After Midnight and Youtube stars Jack Maynard and Caspar Lee.

The girls, aged between 10 and 14, could enjoy all the fun and excitement of a pop concert while celebrating their role in Girlguiding.

Lucy Zoeller aged 12 said: "I've never been to the Big Gig before and were all so excited on the coach on the way."

She added: "My favourite acts were Five After Midnight and Louisa Johnson but I also loved seeing Roman Kemp who was introducing the acts."

"It's great being in Guides as we do so many brilliant things!"

The charity is currently recruiting for more volunteers to help deliver their exciting programme to over 400,000 girls and young women across the UK.

Man guilty of cocaine plan

Reporter
Riley Krause
riley.krause@newsquest.co.uk

A Thornton Heath man has been found guilty of conspiring to import £9 million worth of cocaine through Heathrow Airport.

Preetam Mungrah, 43, of Thornton Heath and Wilfred Owusu, 30, of Stoke Newington, were found guilty on Thursday October 5 at Kingston Crown Court of conspiring with baggage handler Joysen Jhurry, 40 from Bantstead, to import the cocaine into the UK.

This followed an 18 month National Crime Agency investigation, which saw Mungrah arrested in December 2016.

NCA surveillance officers would watch as Jhurry arranged to move suitcases containing the drugs off a flight from Brazil and have them placed on baggage carousels for domestic flights.

Around the time of each flight Jhurry was in phone contact with right-hand man Mungrah.

The bags would be then collected by couriers, organised by Owusu, arriving on internal flights from other airports in the UK, who could exit Heathrow without going through customs controls.

Two such couriers, Danovan Bull, 45, and Moses Awopetu, 38, were arrested on arrival and would later plead guilty to importing class A drugs.

On other occasions, seizures were made by Border Force officers.

In total, cocaine weighing more than 100 kilos and cannabis weighing around 50 kilos was seized from the gang.

NCA regional head of investigations Brendan Foreman said: "This was a sophisticated plot and at the centre of it was a man who used his privileged access to Heathrow and insider knowledge of the airport's systems for criminal purposes."

"This kind of corruption threatens the security of the UK border and the public at large which is why the NCA and its partners are tackling it as a priority."

"Working with Border Force, Airport authorities and the airline community we were able to stop this organised crime group in its tracks and pull together evidence which demonstrated their guilt to the jury."

Three other men, Damion Goodhall, 30, of Tooting, London, Mark Agoro, 51, of Thurrock, Essex, and Aziz Abdul, 37, of no fixed abode, also pleaded guilty to being part of the conspiracy.

All will be sentenced later in the year.

"Breakthrough Advances in Denture Technology May End Your Frustration With Ill-Fitting Dentures."

The Clinic dedicated to solving your denture problems

The Denture Clinic was the first clinic to use the bifunctional prosthetic system in the UK. This system is an advanced denture making technique that enables the clinic to offer patients a cost effective long term solution to their denture problems. The Denture Clinic is one of only a handful of practices which dedicates its treatments to denture patients, and has Denture Technicians and a Laboratory on site. Meeting and talking with the technician making your denture is a key benefit. The team has been trained directly by Dr Stewart to be able to carry out treatment to the highest level.

Amazing Results

Many patients have confidence in their dentist treating their natural teeth but often feel that they are less capable in assisting them with their denture problems.

Revolutionary Techniques

The Denture Clinic has seen and helped with just about every conceivable denture problem that exists and has developed many new exclusive techniques to improve dentures and solve issues.

"I am so pleased with my lower denture I am returning for them to make the upper"
Miss C Johnson, Kent

In recent years the clinic has also pioneered new systems including 3D dentures, and conventional dental implants for dentures to "clip" onto. For those who are not suitable for this Mini Dental Implants can often be a solution.

The Denture Clinic receives numerous referrals from general dentists and helps solve common patient frustrations with dentures.

"Denture Wearers' 5 Most Common Frustrations"

1. My Dentures are loose which I find embarrassing.
2. My Dentures are sore and painful when I chew.
3. I have never been happy with the appearance of my teeth and I hate having photos taken.
4. I am not able to chew food properly and can't order what I want at restaurants.
5. I have been told by my dentist that my Dentures are as good as I can expect which leaves me feeling depressed.

Thanks for thoughts

Thanks for sharing your views with us, as always, and also for giving us the stunning picture of the heron. Really good to reflect that the relentless outward surge of the bricks, mortar and concrete of suburbia has not yet swallowed all our green space and water, and driven out all the wildlife!

With you, 100%, on the crude, depressing oversell of Christmas. Our ubiquitous old high-street pals Tesco are surely among the prime suspects, here. Their in-store tree seems to go up in October, but Christmas then suddenly ends, for them, more or less, on Boxing Day (if not before), with the hot cross buns and the chocolate eggs often on sale, often immediately. Shop early for Easter, I suppose!

The "consultation" by TfL on making the London trams cashless was something waiting to happen, with all the buses now already cashless. If paying by cash for a paper-ticket works out to be more expensive, then it's no good for anyone, least of all those worst-off. There is a lot else, besides (think of maintenance, cash-handling, security, and so on), going for making the change, but I still really do wish that the council, the government, TfL (and others) would not describe as "consultation" their process of telling us (or selling us) what they have already decided and are planning to do. For me, genuine "consultation" would always be a process of asking us, first, and then deciding what to do.

Of course, if we told the powers-that-be to stick their wonderful ideas somewhere unilluminated by the sunshine, it might be inconvenient for them (and they would then come out with all the stuff about interfering with their grand "plans and visions" for us, and all the David Brent, management-for-dummies tat about being naughty by "not moving forward and embracing change"). Am I that bothered? Well, no – because those in charge of us should surely remember, and be reminded if they forget, that they are our servants (and our paid servants, at that), and not our masters.

Bridge repair deserves a proper level of management

The ongoing chaos of the Ashcombe Road bridge closure continues, irrespective of the major disruption it is causing local residents.

The bridge is the crucial link between Gap and Queens Roads and is a key route between Wimbledon Park and Trinity ward. The bridge is relied upon by countless parents for daily school runs, by people visiting the shops on The Broadway and for everyone's general access to the town centre. Throughout the year, the council has publicized a moving feast of closure periods and forever changing completion dates.

The initial street signage stated that works to the bridge would commence in March and be completed before the end of April. The project was then rescheduled repeatedly, at one stage promising boots on the ground with work to start at the beginning of July. Any hopes anyone had of the bridge being open again in time for the new school term were soon dashed, local residents often reporting long periods of inactivity and zero presence on the site during August, with works only starting properly it seems after the school holidays ended.

The latest council website proclamation now states the bridge will be closed all the way through to the Christmas trading period in December, whilst other announcements state that the bridge will reopen on 'dates unknown'!

Badly worded indecipherable street signage has also been erected leaving residents baffled as they attempt to read the garbled messages, whilst the local ward councillors were omitted from advance notice of the works.

The patience of local residents is wearing thin as traffic builds along Cromwell Road with stationary cars in gridlock and even bus routes adversely impacted. The bridge is a critical point of local infrastructure and its repair and maintenance deserve proper levels of priority and management.

Only half the story

I was pleased to read Cllr David Simpson's letter (Wimbledon Guardian, 28 September), criticising Sadiq Khan's plan to close Wimbledon Police Station, but dismayed that he only told half the story.

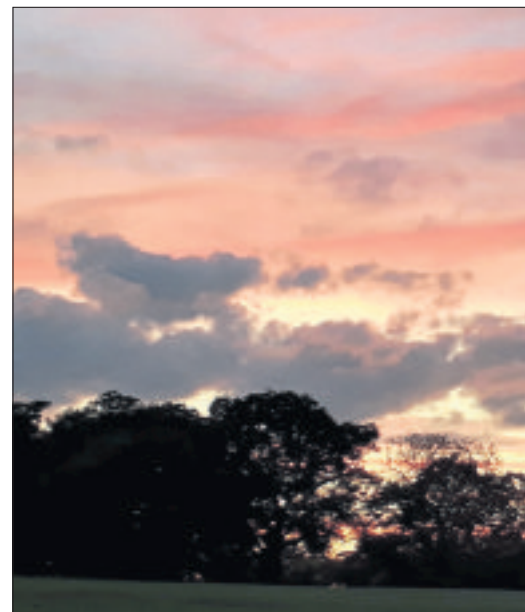

Whilst he is right to attack the Labour Mayor's short-sighted proposal, he fails to mention that it is in response to the Conservative government's equally foolish decision to cut the Metropolitan Police budget by over £1 billion. That is why the Merton Liberal Democrat petition, which is moving toward 2000 signatures and can be signed at SaveWimbledonPoliceStation.org.uk, rejects both strategies.

Given that we have a Conservative MP in Stephen Hammond, and a Labour Council, running Merton, the residents of Wimbledon would be forgiven for assuming a guaranteed hearing in both the Home Office and City Hall. Unfortunately, however, the opposite is the case, with a craven MP, unwilling to criticise his party's Home Secretary, and apologetic Labour Councillors excusing the Mayor's lack of imagination by simply blaming the, admittedly hypocritical, Tories. Is it any wonder that the only posters, rejecting the proposal, displayed in windows across the borough are from the Lib Dems who, in our response, have rejected the Mayor's binary choice, which appears to benefit 'Labour Mitcham' over 'Tory Wimbledon', in favour of a more imaginative set of proposals, including partial sale, redevelopment and relocation.

Needing to watch it after getting new gadget

I'm sure we all remember the old joke – the one with the punchline that Mickey Mouse has an Andy Parkes' watch. It dates back to a time when a Mickey Mouse watch was shorthand for a cheap product.

Well, Andy Parkes now has a Mickey Mouse watch, but it certainly didn't come cheap.

I was lucky enough to get an Apple Watch for my birthday and any proud owners will be aware the options for different faces and designs are endless.

Mickey not only tells me the time, wishes me a good morning and taps his foot endearingly, he even has the nerve to laugh at me occasionally.

Of course, there's far more

to an Apple Watch than just a cheeky mouse but I suspect it will take this ageing technophobe months to discover all its capabilities.

Mind you, rather than learning how to add features, the first thing I had to master was getting into settings to switch a few off.

If not, I was in serious danger of Mickey and his pals taking over my life.

The first unrequested demand from the new friend on my wrist advised me to breathe.

Surely we don't need a watch to tell us this, I've been doing it for 55 years – just long enough to warrant the gift. But apparently I haven't been breathing properly and if, when reminded, I now do it correctly, then I won't get stressed – my wife will be delighted.

Of course, it does all the usual stuff you'd expect: maps my every movement on foot or on wheels; checks my heart rate; tells my phone to take photos; reminds me to stand up; expels water.

But, it's subtle too, the darned thing creeps up on you and before you know it you're left wondering how you possibly survived before you strapped on this bag of tricks.

Once I've mastered switching off the healthier gizmos I'm sure I'll have the energy to look for some of the really useful applications on offer.

Using it for contactless payment is great, but with no upper limit I'll need to be careful.

I'm told it will also take the place of my car keys and remotely unlock my garage – clever stuff.

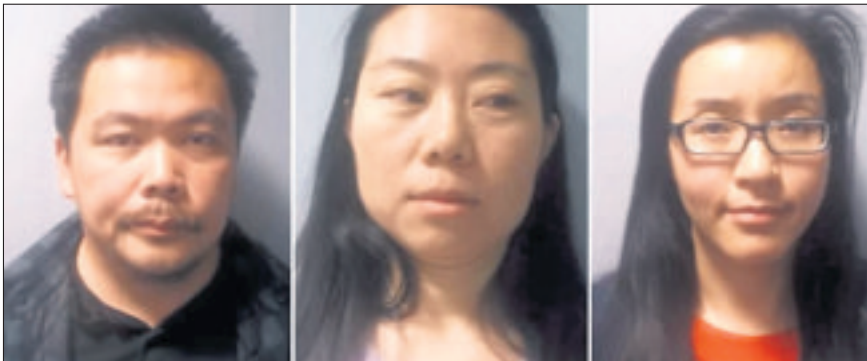

All in all I love it but I am left wondering how long it will be before we're living our entire lives through commands from our wrists?

Group exploited women from south-east Asia

Three guilty of running sex ring

from left: Hong Chin, Li Wei Gao and Tingli Lu

Reporter
Calum Rutter
calum.rutter@london.newsquest.co.uk

Three people traffickers have been found guilty of running a prostitution ring that exploited 19 vulnerable south east Asian women at hotels in the UK.

Li Wei Gao, an unemployed 44-year-old woman from China, who lives in Portsmouth Road, Esher, and Hong Chin, a 45-year-old takeaway employee who lives in Newton Wood Road, Ashted were charged together.

Kevin Thompson, from the Crown Prosecution Service, said: "The gang exploited vulnerable women, putting them to work in situations which exposed them to serious potential risks. Once the women were caught up in the prostitution ring, it was invariably almost impossible for them to escape the life they had been forced into."

"All the time, they were then earning what turned out to be huge sums of money for the defendants, who were responsible for running the operation without any regard for the women's wellbeing."

The pair was charged with conspiring to control prostitution for gain between February 1, 2013, and June 11, 2015 and conspiring to traffic people for sexual exploitation into the UK between March 10, 2015, and June 11, 2015.

Hong Chin was also charged with the same offences with Tingli Lu, a 47-year-old Chinese beautician of Somers Road, Southsea, Hampshire. They were found guilty at the Old Bailey on Thursday, October 5, and will be sentenced on October 26.

Detective Inspector Andy Richardson said: "This has been a complex and lengthy investigation where vulnerable women were trafficked into the UK for the purposes of prostitution."

"Often the women were moved to different towns around the South East where hotel rooms were booked for them, and then they were told who they would be seeing and what services they had to offer; they had no say in any of this."

"This was effectively a well organised and structured business which made the defendants thousands of pounds, as was seen from their bank accounts."

"Over the course of the investigation officers spoke to a number of women with their safety and welfare at the forefront of our minds."

"Each of the women we spoke to were offered support and protection through the National Referral Mechanism."

"Our case was also supported by the strength of the account given by one of the victims, who bravely gave evidence at the trial and I am grateful for her cooperation."

A spokesperson for Elmbridge police said: "These convictions are a really positive result and show that human trafficking is not acceptable and will not be tolerated. We will leave no stone unturned in bringing those who commit such horrific crimes to justice."

During the trial, a fourth person charged in connection with the case, Wing Yeun, a 41-year-old taxi driver of Palace Square, London, was found not guilty of all charges.

Concerns for missing man, 49

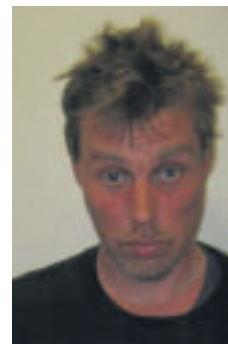

A 'vulnerable' man who was last seen in the Epsom area has been missing for nearly a week.

Neil Emery, 49, was last seen on October 3 and Surrey Police are concerned for his wellbeing. He is white, around 177cm tall, of a stocky build, with short blonde hair and blue eyes.

When he was last seen he was wearing a white tee-shirt, black jeans, a black jacket, a blue shirt and green trainers.

Although he does not have any links to a particular area, he likes open, grassy spaces and has been known to sleep rough. He has been missing before and on previous occasions has been found in Wimbledon Common and at Ryka's Café near Box Hill. Anyone who has information is asked to contact the police on 101, quoting reference number 45170109167.

Couple's award from PM May

Reporter

Calum Rutter

calum.rutter@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Tadworth couple who lost their daughter when she was 26 and created a mascot that has raised more than £75,000 for charity has been recognised by the Prime Minister.

Geoff and Jenny Smith have won a Points of Light award for creating Tadworth the Hound, the canine mascot for The Children's Trust, which rehabilitates, educates and cares for children with brain injuries and neurodisabilities.

The couple's daughter Jacqui worked as a healthcare assistant for the charity, so they began volunteering in her memory.

For more than a decade, Geoff has dressed up as Tadworth – a costume he found in his shed – while Jenny acts as his eyes and ears.

On one occasion, Tadworth helped a young girl who was struggling to relax her clenched fists by placing his hands on hers.

Points of Light awards are given daily by the Prime Minister, recognising outstanding volunteers and people who are making changes in their community.

Jenny and Geoff Smith, volunteers for The Children's Trust who have been awarded the Points of Light award

Geoff said: "We are so very grateful to receive this award, and it means so much to us. We are honoured to volunteer for The Children's Trust and very humbled by this recognition."

A letter from Theresa May read: "You should be proud of how your innovative fundraising is lifting the spirits of young people across The Children's Trust. It is an incredibly fitting tribute to the memory of your daughter Jacqui."

GET INTO WORKSTART AT ORCHARD HILL

Brandon joined the Traineeship course at Orchard Hill College because he was very keen to gain paid employment in a maintenance or caretaker role. Brandon had previously attended a course at another College in multi-skilled construction, however it did not work out for him.

Throughout the course, Brandon was enthusiastic, hardworking using his initiative to actively look for work alongside our Job Coaches.

Keen to put his practical skills to use, he started with a work placement as a handyman assistant at the historic house and gardens of Fulham Palace.

The staff at the palace were singing Brandon's praises, saying how impressed they were with his dedication to the role. Following the success of his initial work placement, Brandon's Job Coach arranged an interview at the Kingfisher Leisure Centre, part of the Places for People group.

Brandon was able to put his interview training and coaching skills into practice, alongside the skills learned on his work experience at Fulham Palace, and he successfully secured a work placement as a Maintenance Assistant. Brandon made a fantastic impression on his colleagues at the Kingfisher Leisure Centre throughout his work placement, and has now achieved a permanent paid role, with the centre's manager saying just how impressed she was with Brandon's work ethic and commitment to his role.

Brandon's story demonstrates how persistence and determination can lead to success. Work Placements Manager, Oliver Connolly says "Brandon has impressed everyone on the course with his positive attitude to work. His employers are very pleased to have such a reliable employee." Principal & CEO of Orchard Hill College & Academy Trust Caroline Allen OBE commented "We know at this time of year in particular, some young adults find themselves out of work and education and without a clear direction.

"It is important that we let them know what other avenues and opportunities are available to them. WorkStart courses are often a way to get back on track."

If you are between 19 and 24 and have been inspired by Brandon's story it isn't too late to join a WorkStart programme at Orchard Hill College, visit www.orchardhill.ac.uk.

NURTURING YOUNG MINDS

Southern Tutors, the Oxbridge Tutor Agency, who supply qualified teachers, is celebrating another excellent year for exam results.

Following this success their expansion has provided a wider choice of venues for their popular 11 plus after-school and intensive holiday courses. These prepare children for a wide range of secondary schools, including grammar and independent schools.

Intensive 11 plus courses are available during all holidays – early booking is essential as places are limited.

They also supply qualified teachers for individual tuition for 11 plus, 13 plus, GCSE and A level and this year's results have been excellent, with high levels achieved in the new exam syllabuses.

Southern Tutors' prolific charity work this year included events around the county. They have been supporting Surrey Arrhythmia Support Group and this year will be attending the Surrey County Show and Epsom and Ewell Borough Fun Day.

FABULOUS FARCE

Alan Ayckbourn's farce, How the Other Half Loves, comes to Richmond Theatre next week...

Direct from a highly celebrated extended season in London's West End, casting has been announced for Bill Kenwright's production of Alan Ayckbourn's farcical tale of matrimonial mishaps, How the Other Half Loves as it gets set thrill audiences across the UK this autumn.

The 1969 classic and the first of Ayckbourn's plays to be staged on Broadway, comes to Richmond from Monday 16th to Saturday 21st October in the last London dates of the tour.

The star cast includes leading stage and TV actor Robert Daws as Frank Foster, best known for the hit series 'The Royal, Outside Edge and Roger Roger opposite Caroline Langrishe as Fiona Foster who starred in Lovejoy, Holby City and Judge John Deed.

Charlie Brooks, much-loved for her portrayal of EastEnders' Janine Butcher performs as Teresa Phillips with Leon Ockenden, best-known for his role as Coronation Street's Will Chatterton as Bob Phillips.

Completing the couples are Matthew Cottle who reprises his critically acclaimed West End performance as William Featherstone, best known for the BAFTA-nominated Game On. Alongside him will be Sara Crowe as Mary Featherstone, who's West End credits include Alan Ayckbourn's Absurd Person Singular and The Constant Wife but perhaps is best known for her role in the popular film Four Weddings and a Funeral.

As Bob and Fiona clumsily try to cover up their affair, their spouses' intervention only adds to the confusion. William and Mary Featherstone become stuck in the middle, falsely accused of adultery and with no idea as to how they've become involved. The plot culminates in two disastrous dinner parties on successive nights, shown at the same time, after which the futures of all three couples seem in jeopardy...

At turns heart-wrenching and hilarious, Ayckbourn's tale of social graces and personal misunderstanding remains one of the celebrated writer's most famous comedies.

An extraordinary success on opening in the West

End in 1970 at the Lyric Theatre, How the Other Half Loves ran for a staggering 869 performances, delighting critics and audiences alike.

Fondly loved and considered one of Ayckbourn's most popular plays; How the Other Half Loves received its first major West End revival in 2016, where it once again thrilled audiences. Originally opening at the Theatre Royal Haymarket followed by an extended run at the Duke of York's, it will now be delighting audiences across the UK.

2017 marks Alan Ayckbourn's 56th year as a theatre director and his 58th as a playwright. To date he has written 80 plays and his work has been translated into over 35 languages. He became the first British playwright to receive both Olivier and Tony Special Lifetime Achievement Awards and was knighted in 1997 for services to theatre.

Major successes include: Relatively Speaking, Absurd Person Singular, Bedroom Farce, A Chorus of Disapproval and The Norman Conquests. In the past four years, there have been revivals of Season's Greetings and A Small Family Business at the National Theatre and in the West End productions of Absent Friends, A Chorus of Disapproval and Relatively Speaking.

How the Other Half Loves is directed by theatre director and biographer Alan Strachan. Alan has directed plays in New York, Copenhagen and Amsterdam, but the majority of his work has been in London.

He was Artistic Director of the Greenwich Theatre in London for over a decade, and has worked with, amongst others, Sir Michael Redgrave, Dame Penelope Keith, Maureen Lipman CBE, Sir Michael Gambon and Sir Alec Guinness. He came to early prominence as Alan Ayckbourn's chosen director, and he has been involved with Ayckbourn's theatre at Scarborough for many years.

FILMCHOICE

THE RITUAL (15): The Hangover downs shots with Deliverance and The Blair Witch Project, and blood flows more readily than booze in David Bruckner's horror thriller. Laced with Nordic mythology and laddish banter, The Ritual is a grim tale of four hapless 30-something pals (Rafe Spall, Robert James-Collier, Arsher Ali and Sam Troughton), who get lost in a Scandinavian forest and come face to face with a malevolent force that drives them to the brink of despair. You won't need a map and compass to navigate each twist in Joe Barton's script, adapted from the novel by Adam Nevill, or discern the order in which thinly sketched characters are most likely to perish. The Ritual resists the temptation for cheap, jump-out-of-your-seat scares to focus on a sustained build-up of tension. Bruckner's approach works, tickling our discomfort until the underwritten characters' fears are realised in a climactic bloodbath augmented with digital effects.

THE LEGO NINJAGO MOVIE (U): The spirit of reconstruction runs deep in The LEGO Ninjago Movie, the third computer-animated adventure in the rapidly expanding franchise. Charlie Bean, Paul Fisher and Bob Logan's film lazily bolts together themes from The LEGO Movie and The LEGO Batman Movie to explore a strained father-son dynamic against a backdrop of martial arts mayhem. The riotous, barnstorming comedy of the first two films has been heavily diluted and a live-action framing device featuring Hong Kong superstar Jackie Chan as the owner of a mystical shop feels like an obvious stylistic conceit. Polished one-liners are disappointingly thin on the brick-plated ground and vocal performances fail to elevate the material above the parapet of mediocrity. A linear quest for a mysterious artefact called The Ultimate, Ultimate Weapon provides a flimsy hook for the toybox tomfoolery, and should hold the attention of very young audiences who are already familiar with the lucrative Ninjago brand.

BLADE RUNNER 2049 (15): Director Denis Villeneuve's eagerly awaited sequel honours the past and respectfully expands the nihilistic universe imagined by Philip K Dick in his novel Do Androids Dream Of Electric Sheep? In Blade Runner 2049, androids dream of wooden horses and possessing the one thing that cannot be coded into their meticulously crafted bodies: a soul. Motifs from Ridley Scott's 1982 film reverberate tantalisingly throughout this pristine follow-up, deftly stitching together two timelines without completely excluding audiences who are blissfully ignorant of the original. Familiarity undoubtedly enriches the experience but also sows seeds of nostalgia-tinged disappointment. For all its bravura production design and flawless special effects, Blade Runner 2049 doesn't smack gobs with its invention, apart from a sensual three-way sex scene that gently tickles our g-spot. Like the automata that enrich human lives, Villeneuve's film is one small yet significant iteration shy of perfection.

THE MOUNTAIN BETWEEN US (12A): A plane crash in mountainous terrain brings together strangers on different emotional flight paths in director Hany Abu-Assad's romantic drama. Based on the novel by Charles Martin, The Mountain Between Us is a gooey collision of beautiful people in peril: a photojournalist (Kate Winslet) on assignment for a national UK newspaper and a gifted neurosurgeon (Idris Elba). The script goes into freefall well before a bravura crash sequence, which the director seemingly captures in a single fluid take, his camera gliding back and forth inside the claustrophobic fuselage until the inevitable, sickening plunge towards terra firma. Oscar winner Winslet and Golden Globe winner Elba don't have a great deal to work with, but both actors threaten to melt the 10 inches of spring snow with their lustful glances and heartfelt delivery of corny dialogue. A final destination is clearly telegraphed far in advance of the softly lit, breathless sex scene. Don't expect much turbulence before landing.

THE GLASS CASTLE (12A): Adapted from Jeannette Walls' best-selling memoir of the same title, director Destin Daniel Cretton's tonally uneven picture asks us to believe that formative years marked by abandonment and rejection could inspire four siblings to discover the inner strength that will stand them in good stead for the future. It's a harsh lesson in self-preservation, delivered with gusto by an impressive ensemble cast led by Oscar winner Brie Larson. Those sterling performances, which frequently claw at our hearts, elevate a chronologically fractured script that fails to endear us to a booze-sodden father (Woody Harrelson), who has a mantra to justify every hard knock until he must finally confront the pain he has wrought.

The Ritual, Rafe Spall as Luke and Sam Troughton as Dom. PA Photo/Entertainment One.

"I spent my whole life running from those demons in the wild," he laments, "and the whole time they were hiding in my belly." That would explain the picture's bloated midsection.

GOODBYE CHRISTOPHER ROBIN (PG): The dark age of celebrity parents monetising their cherubic children dawned many years before the scourge of selfies, social media and smartphones. In the handsomely crafted drama Goodbye Christopher Robin, battle-scarred author AA Milne (Domhnall Gleeson) and his wife Daphne (Margot Robbie) treat their young son (Will Tilton) as a sales tool in the mid-1920s to promote the literary adventures of a hunny-loving bear called Winnie-The-Pooh. The sacrifice of one little boy's childhood innocence for the happiness and healing of a shell-shocked Britain, which has been devastated by the Great War, is at the wounded heart of Simon Curtis's picture. The script, co-written by Frank Cottrell-Boyce and Simon Vaughan, gradually exposes the anguish and resentment that festered beneath the Hundred Acre Wood. It's an emotionally chilly film, reflected in Gleeson's restrained performance, which internalises Milne's post-traumatic stress and shuts out his family as well as us.

KINGSMAN: THE GOLDEN CIRCLE (15): Director Matthew Vaughn's high-octane spy caper sequel opens with a digitally enhanced bang: an outlandish fight sequence inside a London taxi, aptly choreographed to Prince's foot-stomping anthem Let's Go Crazy. For the next two hours, Vaughn and co-writer Jane Goldman oblige. They sacrifice logic at the altar of cartoonish calamity as Eggsy (Taron Egerton) and technical support guru Merlin (Mark Strong) join forces with Kingsman's swaggering Transatlantic counterparts, Statesman, in order to defeat drugs cartel kingpin Poppy Adams (Julianne Moore). Kingsman: The Golden Circle quickly accelerates into the same preposterous groove as its 2015 predecessor, unleashing an exhausting blitzkrieg of hyper-stylised mayhem.

BluesFest returns to The O2 in London in October with a stellar line-up that includes the best-selling duo in music history Daryl Hall & John Oates, award-winning soul and R&B outfit The Doobie Brothers, legendary hitmakers Chic and Nile Rodgers, ten-time Grammy-winning Chaka Khan and chart-topping US crooner Chris Isaak.

The festival has also confirmed that a previously announced concert from Steely Dan, whose co-founding member Walter Becker passed away this month, will proceed as scheduled.

The band are lined up to close the festival on a double bill with The Doobie Brothers on Sunday October 29th and Donald Fagen made the following statement: "Walter Becker was my friend, my writing partner and my bandmate since we met as students at Bard College in 1967.

"We started writing nutty little tunes on an upright piano in a small sitting room in the lobby of Ward Manor, a mouldering old mansion on the Hudson River that the college used as a dorm.

We liked a lot of the same things: jazz (from the twenties through the mid-sixties), W.C. Fields, the Marx Brothers, science fiction, Nabokov, Kurt Vonnegut, Thomas Berger, and Robert Altman films come to mind. Also soul music and Chicago blues.

Walter had a very rough childhood - I'll spare you the details. Luckily, he was smart as a whip, an excellent guitarist and a great songwriter. He was cynical about human nature, including his own, and hysterically funny.

Like a lot of kids from fractured families, he had the knack of creative mimicry, reading people's hidden psychology and transforming what he saw

Listen to the LEGENDS

into bubbly, incisive art. He used to write letters (never meant to be sent) in my wife Libby's singular voice that made the three of us collapse with laughter.

His habits got the best of him by the end of the seventies, and we lost touch for a while. In the eighties, when I was putting together the NY Rock and Soul Review with Libby, we hooked up again, revived the Steely Dan concept and developed another terrific band.

I intend to keep the music we created together alive as long as I can with the Steely Dan band."

Also appearing on the bill this year will be Anglo-Italian singer-songwriter Jack Savoretti and revered American blues-rock outfits Gov't Mule and Kenny Wayne Shepherd Band.

BluesFest 2017 will run from Friday October 27th - Sunday 29th and will once again utilise all areas of The O2 complex, including the 14000-capacity Arena and Indigo at The O2.

Launched in 2011, BluesFest fast became one of Europe's leading roots music festivals and has since presented concerts from an array of stars from the worlds of blues, jazz, soul, pop and r&b including BB King, Van Morrison, Robert Plant, Bobby Womack, Gregory Porter, Elvis Costello, Dave Matthews Band, Bad Company, Jeff Beck, Mary J. Blige, Robert Cray, Tedeschi Trucks, Ronnie Wood, Maxwell, Maxv Staples, George Benson, Jamie Cullum, Tom Jones and Little Steven and The Disciples Of Soul.

How to make your deposit go further...

Managing to secure a mortgage isn't just about proving you can afford to repay it each month. You'll need to have at least 5% of the deposit saved up – more if you want the lowest rates. But with house prices steady, even 5% can be a huge amount.

If saving tens of thousands of pounds feels like a daunting prospect, you aren't alone. We asked the Money Advice Service to share some of the ways you can boost the value of your deposit.

Apply for a Help to Buy equity loan:

If you're buying a new build home, you can apply for a Help to Buy loan of up to 20% (up to 40% in London) of the property value. The first five years are interest free, and after that you'll be charged a fee of 1.75% of the loan's value. The fee then increases every year, according to the Retail Prices Index plus 1%. Fees do not count towards paying back the loan.

You don't even need to be a first time buyer to take advantage of this scheme, but you do need to have a 5% deposit saved up, and the house you're buying must be your only home. Read more about paying back the loan via the UK Gov website.

Save in a Help to Buy ISA: If you're a first time buyer, you can save up to a maximum of £200 a month towards your first home with the ISA. Once you reach £12,000 (or before) you'll be able to get a 25% return tax-free. So if you save the maximum amount, it's a bonus of £3,000.

Shared ownership: This scheme lets you buy part of a property and pay rent on the rest, bringing down the size of the deposit you need. Priority is given to anyone who currently rents a council or housing association property, though each local authority will have different conditions.

Buy with someone else: It doesn't have to be a partner or family member. Buying with friends can mean you can all save up quicker to get the required deposit. Just make sure you talk about what happens if one of you wants to sell their share.

Buy somewhere cheaper: You might find your dream location is just too expensive. If you can find a cheaper property, you'll either be able to buy it sooner with the deposit you already have, or keep saving for a little longer to get a better mortgage deal. Maximise your interest

If you're saving the maximum amount in the Help to Buy ISA, make sure the rest of the money you save isn't just sitting in your bank account. There's a lot of competition among current accounts right now, meaning it's possible to get as much as 5% interest on your savings. There are restrictions with these, so make sure you read the Ts and Cs.

Don't forget the other costs: Even if you are able to boost the size of your deposit, don't stop saving. You'll need to make sure you can afford mortgage fees, Stamp Duty, moving costs and day to day maintenance of your new home.

Skills for call-centre success

IN THE call and contact centre sector, encouragement, training and motivation are all vital to help employees reach their full potential. So we've compiled our own pearls of wisdom that we think call-centre bosses should pass on to new recruits. Keep smiling. Go into every call with a smile and an optimistic attitude.

Customers can sense positivity and sometimes it rubs off on them too. Not all calls go as planned but if you start each one with a smile, you're hoping for the best. Don't sweat the small stuff. Understand not every call will be perfect and you can't always solve everything.

Don't let this burst your big balloon though. If it's been a tough shift, simply plan today for a better one tomorrow. Never take it personally. Call and contact centres can be demanding workplaces and the chances are you'll have some difficult customers to deal with.

The key to not becoming stressed about it is to just let the bad stuff slide. Be the bigger person. Not bigger like a sumo wrestler, but larger in patience like a small, calm Yoda! Some customers will push you to the limit, but always keep a level head. Never find yourself pushing back as that's not going to end well. Value yourself. Always take pride in the work you do. You might feel like you're a small cog in a very large wheel but, if your talents weren't needed, you wouldn't be there doing such a great job.

McLaughlin keeps faith

Carshalton Athletic defender Mekhail McLaughlin's belief that his team could get back to winning ways after back-to-back defeats was fully justified as the Robins won 1-0 at Horsham on Tuesday night, writes James Barrett-Sterling.

After losing their unbeaten league record 2-0 at Hastings United, the Robins travelled to Heybridge Swifts for an FA Trophy tie last Saturday and lost by the same scoreline.

But a 38th-minute goal from Mikel Miller was enough to get the Robins another victory and a clean sheet at Horsham, and McLaughlin wants his team to get back to doing what it does best – scoring goals.

"We tried a slightly more defensive formation against Heybridge and perhaps focussing on that side meant we didn't play our normal game," said McLaughlin.

"We wanted to stretch the game by using wing backs but we found it difficult to keep the ball up their end for long periods.

"We made a change after half-time and we played much better but, credit to them, we just couldn't get that breakthrough."

But, despite exiting their third cup competition of the season, McLaughlin is confident he and his teammates can get back on track quickly.

"We do need to get back to winning ways but we haven't lost any confidence inside the dressing room," the 21-year old revealed.

"We'll go into the next game with a positive mindset. Our forwards will always provide a goal threat and we just need to get that balance between the attack and defence sorted."

Carshalton Athletic travel to Guernsey this Saturday (October 14), kick-off 3pm and then visit East Grinstead Town next Tuesday.

Salts hit road

Ashley Thompson and Kyle Hough were on target for Epsom and Ewell in their 6-2 defeat at Knaphill last weekend, writes George Holland.

The Salts hope to get back on track this Saturday (October 14) when they travel to Krooner Park for what is traditionally a difficult match against mid-table Camberley Town. The kick off for this CCL Premier Division match will be 3pm.

The following Saturday 21 October, The Salts make their much awaited visit to Rushall, near Tunbridge Wells, for the FA Vase 1st Round.

It will be the first ever match between the two sides. The hosts ground being called the quaintly named Jockey Farm Stadium.

On Saturday 28 October, Epsom play host to North Greenford United at High Road, Chipstead, at 3pm in the CCL.

Sutton aim for more glory

By Liam McInerney
liam.mcinerney@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Famed giantkillers Sutton United hit the FA Cup trail once again this Saturday and the task ahead of them couldn't be more of a contrast to their last appearance in the competition.

The eyes of the world were firmly fixed on the U's back in February when they took on Arsene Wenger's star-studded Arsenal side with a global TV audience of millions tuning in hoping to witness an upset in the fifth round.

But the Gunners, who included Theo Walcott, Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain and Alexis Sanchez on the night, won 2-0 to end what was a glorious chapter in Sutton's history following a series of headline-grabbing cup victories.

This weekend Paulton Rovers, currently 18th in the Evo-Stick South-West Division which is three tiers below Sutton, will be hoping to claim a notable scalp when the U's come to town for a fourth qualifying round clash.

The David v Goliath match-up is one that Sutton United Chairman, Bruce Elliott, is looking forward to.

"We are probably the favourites," he said. "But as we know, the FA Cup is magical and full of surprises."

Sutton's FA Cup march last season included stunning wins over League One neighbours AFC Wimbledon and Championship high-fliers Leeds United which culminated in the clash with Arsenal, an encounter which epitomised the romance of the competition.

During the FA Cup draws last season, Bruce joined the players and all the staff in the clubroom to watch the drama unfold live.

"It was so surreal," said the Sutton chairman. "I remember them all. The Wimbledon one was huge because of our big connection with them."

"The Arsenal draw was something else. The place was absolutely packed. Everyone was looking at each other like 'is this right?'"

"Perhaps we were dreaming. It will never be forgotten. Sometimes the draws are almost as exciting as the games. That moment was so special."

Having drawn 0-0 at home to AFC Wimbledon in the third round, more than 800 Sutton fans travelled to Kingsmeadow for the replay and saw Paul Doswell's men come from behind to win 3-1 thanks to goals from Roarie Deacon, Max Biamou and Dan Fitchett.

"We have always had excellent support," Bruce said. "The cup run generated a lot of extra interest. We seem to have managed to keep a lot of fans who came last season and they are enjoying it."

The chairman has been going to watch Sutton play since his dad took him when he was young. He has fond memories of the FA Cup giantkilling of Coventry City in the third round of 1989.

"Everybody was there and it was a day they all remember. The Coventry game wasn't on live TV, so you had to wait to watch it on Match of the Day after."

The good times are continuing on the

Cooper-Smith's late show

Sutton Common Rovers picked up their third straight league win, sixth in all competitions, on Friday night when a late Daryl Cooper-Smith header gave them all three points at Colliers Wood United.

SCR took the lead midway through the half, when Asa Rixon crashed into a challenge five yards outside the Wood area, and with players expecting a whistle, Matt Auletta took aim and fired low to goalkeeper Sean Fallons' right to give SCR the lead.

Mario Embalo had a couple of decent chances on the half hour, but was unable to trouble Eacott, and SCR went close late on when Hastings headed a free kick over the bar. Wood were almost level early in the half, when SCR goalkeeper Michael Eacott slipped while making a save from an Embalo shot, and fortunately spooned the ball behind for a corner.

Eacott was took a knock when saving a Theo Woodhouse effort but cleared his head to stay on, but it came as no surprise when Wood levelled when William Efanbe drilled his effort beyond Eacott.

With five minutes left Jean-Luc Kinsaba forced a corner, Matt Ferdinand swung the ball in and Cooper-Smith scored the winner. SCR are home to Chertsey this Saturday, 3pm, at Sutton United FC.

S&E just fall short

Sutton & Epsom 26 Tunbridge Wells 27

Tunbridge Wells drew first blood after ten minutes which was a fair reward for their bright opening but was more of a gift from Sutton.

The opposition captain and scrum half, Chaz Spence, exploited a gap down the blindsides touch. Winger Max Douch provided the finishing touches crossing the whitewash. Fly-half, Frank Reynolds missed the conversion.

Within five minutes S&E were on the scoreboard. Through a Jacob Knight penalty.

A fine offload by Knight and good support running provided space for Jamie See to jink to the line for an unconverted try to take the lead. Sutton & Epsom's Steve Munford claim the score as the Black & Whites surged over. The wind defeated the kicking once more as Sutton extended their lead to 13-5 but the visiting XV soon scored another try and the extras were added and deservedly the St Mark's team were back in contention at 10-13. Their first half recovery was completed as Stefan Cooksammy fell victim to hubris as he chose to run out of his 22 declining the kicking option. Ensnared by the enveloping Tunbridge Wells tacklers a penalty was conceded. The penalty was effortlessly converted by Frank Reynolds and the teams turned around honours even at 13-13 as the whistle ended a fluctuating half as Dave Weller was given a yellow card.

Despite formidable resistance a patient S&E pack pushed forward and Raynyn Bruce, returning from injury, marked his appearance off the bench with the score under the posts. Knight added the conversion for a 20-13 lead.

Five minutes later following a brace of penalties the referee evened up the numbers as the opposition received a yellow card. The second infringement was punished by the boot of Jacob Knight as the Black & Whites had opened a healthy 23-13 lead.

Tunbridge Wells seized a chance by kicking to the corner and executing the catch and drive. The goal was completed with the Jack Reynolds conversion. As one hour was reached on the clock the hosts added to their tally. Andy Matthews angled run was read to perfection by the defence and he was flattened by a thunderous tackle that was controversially penalised. The kick was in front of the uprights and the three points added for the Surrey side to lead 26-20. Within ten minutes the visitors managed to squeeze in at the corner flag. Having witnessed a host of kicks drift agonisingly wide all afternoon it was mighty impressive that Jack Reynolds converted from the touchline. Tunbridge Wells now led 27-26 and in doing so had earned a bonus point for their fourth try.
